

DRAFT Proposed Revisions
Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS)
English Language Arts and Reading, English II

Prepared by the State Board of Education TEKS Review Committees
First Draft, November 2015

These draft proposed revisions reflect the changes to the English language arts and reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) that have been recommended by State Board of Education-appointed TEKS review committees for English I-IV. Proposed additions are shown in green font with underlines (additions) and proposed deletions are shown in red font with strikethroughs (~~deletions~~). Text proposed to be moved from its current student expectation is shown in purple font with strikethrough (~~moved text~~) and is shown in the proposed new location in purple font with underlines (new text location).

Comments in the right-hand column provide explanations for the proposed changes. The following notations were used as part of the explanations:

- CRS—information added or changed to align with the Texas College and Career Readiness Standards (CCRS)
- ER—information added, changed, or deleted based on expert reviewer feedback
- MV—multiple viewpoints from within the committee
- VA—information added, changed, or deleted to increase vertical alignment

TEKS with edits		Committee Comments
(a)	Introduction.
(1)	The English Language Arts and Reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) are organized into the following strands: Reading, where students read and understand a wide variety of literary and informational texts; Writing, where students compose a variety of written texts with a clear controlling idea, coherent organization, and sufficient detail; Research, where students are expected to know how to locate a range of relevant sources and evaluate, synthesize, and present ideas and information; Listening and Speaking, where students listen and respond to the ideas of others while contributing their own ideas in conversations and in groups; and Oral and Written Conventions, where students learn how to use the oral and written conventions of the English language in speaking and writing. The standards are cumulative--students will continue to address earlier standards as needed while they attend to standards for their grade. In English II, students will engage in activities that build on their prior knowledge and skills in order to strengthen their reading, writing, and oral language skills. Students should read and write on a daily basis.
(2)	For students whose first language is not English, the students' native language serves as a foundation for English language acquisition.
(A)	English language learners (ELLs) are acquiring English, learning content in English, and learning to read simultaneously. For this reason, it is imperative that reading instruction should be comprehensive and that students receive instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word attack skills while simultaneously being taught academic vocabulary and comprehension skills and strategies. Reading instruction that enhances ELL's ability to decode unfamiliar words and to make sense of those words in context will expedite their ability to make sense of what they read and learn from reading. Additionally, developing fluency, spelling, and grammatical conventions of academic language must be done in meaningful contexts and not in isolation.
(B)	For ELLs, comprehension of texts requires additional scaffolds to support comprehensible input. ELL students should use the knowledge of their first language (e.g., cognates) to further vocabulary development. Vocabulary needs to be taught in the context of connected discourse so that language is meaningful. ELLs must learn how rhetorical devices in English differ from those in their native language. At the same time English learners are learning in English, the focus is on academic English, concepts, and the language structures specific to the content.
(C)	During initial stages of English development, ELLs are expected to meet standards in a second language that many monolingual English speakers find difficult to meet in their native language. However, English language learners' abilities to meet these standards will be influenced by their proficiency in English. While English language learners can analyze, synthesize, and evaluate, their level of English proficiency may impede their ability to demonstrate this knowledge during the initial stages of English language acquisition. It is also critical to understand that ELLs with no previous or with interrupted schooling will require explicit and strategic support as they acquire English and learn to learn in English simultaneously.
(3)	To meet Public Education Goal 1 of the Texas Education Code, §4.002, which states, "The students in the public education system will demonstrate exemplary performance in the reading and writing of the English language,"

	students will accomplish the essential knowledge, skills, and student expectations in English II as described in subsection (b) of this section.
(4)	To meet Texas Education Code, §28.002(h), which states, "... each school district shall foster the continuation of the tradition of teaching United States and Texas history and the free enterprise system in regular subject matter and in reading courses and in the adoption of textbooks," students will be provided oral and written narratives as well as other informational texts that can help them to become thoughtful, active citizens who appreciate the basic democratic values of our state and nation.
(b)	Knowledge and skills.
(1)	Reading/Vocabulary Development. Students understand new vocabulary and use it when reading and writing. Students are expected to:
1(A)	determine the meaning of grade-level technical academic English words in multiple content areas (e.g., science, mathematics, social studies, the arts) derived from Latin, Greek, or other linguistic roots and affixes; Apply word study to increase vocabulary and learn new words and concepts, including academic and other content area vocabulary.	CCRS II.B.1
1(B)	analyze textual context (within a sentence and in larger sections of text) to distinguish between the denotative and connotative meanings of words; Use context and knowledge of roots, affixes, and cognates to determine denotation and connotation of unfamiliar words and phrases.	CCRS II.B.2
(C)	infer word meaning through the identification and analysis of analogies and other word relationships;	MV: To keep “analogies” as a type of word study as it forces students to consider relationships between words; “part of critical thinking,” concern that not all districts have ESOL; if analogies are included, other methods of word study must also be included; analogies are included are tested for exit testing. To strike “analogies” all together because CCRS have removed them, they are covered in “word study,” and teachers should be trusted to include them (analogies removed from SAT and ACT)
(D)	show the relationship between the origins and meaning of foreign words or phrases used frequently in written English and historical events or developments (e.g., glasnost, avant-garde, coup d'état); and	“foreign words and phrases” are included in “word study” (D merged with A)

(E) 1C	use a dictionary, a glossary, or a thesaurus (printed or electronic) to determine or confirm the meanings of words and phrases, including their connotations and denotations, and their etymology.—Use a variety of resources both print and digital, including dictionaries, thesauri or glossaries, to define, clarify, and validate understanding.	CCRS II.B.3 MV: 1. To keep “etymology” because it is a specific term and requires a specific action of study (“word study” doesn’t mean the same thing.) Will give more specific direction to the teacher 2. To remove “etymology” because we must trust teachers to understand the meaning of “word study”—and all its parts, to streamline language
1D	Self-select texts and read independently	Streamlined for ESOL 1
(2)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Theme and Genre. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about theme and genre in different cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	compare and contrast differences in similar themes expressed in different time periods;
(B)	analyze archetypes (e.g., journey of a hero, tragic flaw) in mythic, traditional and classical literature; and
(C)	relate the figurative language of a literary work to its historical and cultural setting.
(3)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Poetry. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of poetry and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.
(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;

(B)	analyze differences in the characters' moral dilemmas in works of fiction across different countries or cultures;
(C)	evaluate the connection between forms of narration (e.g., unreliable, omniscient) and tone in works of fiction; and
(D)	demonstrate familiarity with works by authors from non-English-speaking literary traditions with emphasis on 20th century world literature.
(6)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Literary Nonfiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the varied structural patterns and features of literary nonfiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.
(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.
(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and
(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.
(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and

(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and
(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).
(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;
(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;
(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and
(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:

(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.
(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;
(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and
(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and
(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:

(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;
(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).
(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:
(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and
(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.
(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and

(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;
(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and
(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;
(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;
(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association , Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.
(24)	Listening and Speaking/Listening. Students will use comprehension skills to listen attentively to others in formal and informal settings. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;

(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.
(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.

Reading/Comprehension Skills

Combine information from the text and the readers schema in order to create a new understanding

Note: Synthesis – C Synthesis - (2DI)

Use text features, elements, structure to make and confirm prediction.

Note: Predicting (CCRS 111 2A) –

Generate questions about text to deepen understanding and gain information.

Note: Questioning (Figure 19 B)

Visualize to create sensory images to interpret and analyze text.

Visualizing (CCRS 11 A6) –

Search connections to personal experiences, ideas in other texts, and to the larger community.

Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.
(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;

Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.

(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.
(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and
(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.
(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and
(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and
(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).

(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;
(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;
(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and
(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.
(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:

(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;
(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and
(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and
(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:
(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;
(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).

(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:
(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and
(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.
(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and
(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;
(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and

(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;
(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;
(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association , Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.
(24)	Listening and Speaking/Listening. Students will use comprehension skills to listen attentively to others in formal and informal settings. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;	Moved to Strand 3
(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.

(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.

DRAFT

§110.32. English Language Arts and Reading, English II (One Credit), Beginning with School Year 2009-2010.

TEKS with edits		Committee Comments
(a)	Introduction.
(1)	The English Language Arts and Reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) are organized into the following strands: Reading, where students read and understand a wide variety of literary and informational texts; Writing, where students compose a variety of written texts with a clear controlling idea, coherent organization, and sufficient detail; Research, where students are expected to know how to locate a range of relevant sources and evaluate, synthesize, and present ideas and information; Listening and Speaking, where students listen and respond to the ideas of others while contributing their own ideas in conversations and in groups; and Oral and Written Conventions, where students learn how to use the oral and written conventions of the English language in speaking and writing. The standards are cumulative--students will continue to address earlier standards as needed while they attend to standards for their grade. In English II, students will engage in activities that build on their prior knowledge and skills in order to strengthen their reading, writing, and oral language skills. Students should read and write on a daily basis.
(2)	For students whose first language is not English, the students' native language serves as a foundation for English language acquisition.
(A)	English language learners (ELLs) are acquiring English, learning content in English, and learning to read simultaneously. For this reason, it is imperative that reading instruction should be comprehensive and that students receive instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word attack skills while simultaneously being taught academic vocabulary and comprehension skills and strategies. Reading instruction that enhances ELL's ability to decode unfamiliar words and to make sense of those words in context will expedite their ability to make sense of what they read and learn from reading. Additionally, developing fluency, spelling, and grammatical conventions of academic language must be done in meaningful contexts and not in isolation.
(B)	For ELLs, comprehension of texts requires additional scaffolds to support comprehensible input. ELL students should use the knowledge of their first language (e.g., cognates) to further vocabulary development. Vocabulary needs to be taught in the context of connected discourse so that language is meaningful. ELLs must learn how rhetorical devices in English differ from those in their native language. At the same time English learners are learning in English, the focus is on academic English, concepts, and the language structures specific to the content.
(C)	During initial stages of English development, ELLs are expected to meet standards in a second language that many monolingual English speakers find difficult to meet in their native language. However, English language learners' abilities to meet these standards will be influenced by their proficiency in English. While English language learners can analyze, synthesize, and evaluate, their level of English proficiency may impede their ability to demonstrate this knowledge during the initial stages of English language acquisition. It is also critical to understand that ELLs with no previous or with interrupted schooling will require explicit and strategic support as they acquire English and learn to learn in English simultaneously.
(3)	To meet Public Education Goal 1 of the Texas Education Code, §4.002, which states, "The students in the public education system will demonstrate exemplary performance in the reading and writing of the English language,"

	students will accomplish the essential knowledge, skills, and student expectations in English II as described in subsection (b) of this section.
(4)	To meet Texas Education Code, §28.002(h), which states, "... each school district shall foster the continuation of the tradition of teaching United States and Texas history and the free enterprise system in regular subject matter and in reading courses and in the adoption of textbooks," students will be provided oral and written narratives as well as other informational texts that can help them to become thoughtful, active citizens who appreciate the basic democratic values of our state and nation.
(b)	Knowledge and skills.
(1)	Reading/Vocabulary Development. Students understand new vocabulary and use it when reading and writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	determine the meaning of grade-level technical academic English words in multiple content areas (e.g., science, mathematics, social studies, the arts) derived from Latin, Greek, or other linguistic roots and affixes;
(B)	analyze textual context (within a sentence and in larger sections of text) to distinguish between the denotative and connotative meanings of words;
(C)	infer word meaning through the identification and analysis of analogies and other word relationships;
(D)	show the relationship between the origins and meaning of foreign words or phrases used frequently in written English and historical events or developments (e.g., glasnost , avant-garde , coup d'état); and
(E)	use a dictionary, a glossary, or a thesaurus (printed or electronic) to determine or confirm the meanings of words and phrases, including their connotations and denotations, and their etymology.
(2)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Theme and Genre. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about theme and genre in different cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	compare and contrast differences in similar themes expressed in different time periods;
(B)	analyze archetypes (e.g., journey of a hero, tragic flaw) in mythic, traditional and classical literature; and
(C)	relate the figurative language of a literary work to its historical and cultural setting.
(3)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Poetry. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of poetry and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.

4	(4) (4) Collaboration: Reading/Writing/Speaking/Listening/ using Multiple Text Types: Collaboration Students work in teams which are both teacher and student-led to communicate effectively in a variety of contexts using academic language , the conventions of English . Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth to increasingly complex texts as they become independent, self-directed, and critical learners. Students are expected to:	From 26 & CCRS
4 (A)	Listen actively, respond appropriately, and adjust communication to audiences and purposes.	CCRS III.A.2 CCRS IV.B.1
4 (B)	Develop a plan that sets ground rules for decision-making and participate productively with others toward common goals.	From 26 CCRS III.B.2
4 (C)	Contribute relevant information and provide and receive constructive feedback by posing and answering questions, and conveying viewpoints.	From 26 CCRS III.B.2
4 (D)	Analyze, evaluate, and validate collaborations.	CCRS III.B.3
(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;
(B)	analyze differences in the characters' moral dilemmas in works of fiction across different countries or cultures;
(C)	evaluate the connection between forms of narration (e.g., unreliable, omniscient) and tone in works of fiction; and
(D)	demonstrate familiarity with works by authors from non-English-speaking literary traditions with emphasis on 20th century world literature.
(6)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Literary Nonfiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the varied structural patterns and features of literary nonfiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.
(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.

(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and
(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.
(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and
(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and
(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).
(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;

(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;
(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and
(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.
(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;

(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and
(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and
(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:
(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;
(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).
(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:

(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and
(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.
(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and
(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;
(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and
(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;

(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;
(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association , Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.
(24)	Listening and Speaking/Listening. Students will use comprehension skills to listen attentively to others in formal and informal settings. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;
(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.
(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.	Now divided into new SEs for Strand 4

§110.32. English Language Arts and Reading, English II (One Credit), Beginning with School Year 2009-2010.

TEKS with edits		Committee Comments
(a)	Introduction.
(1)	The English Language Arts and Reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) are organized into the following strands: Reading, where students read and understand a wide variety of literary and informational texts; Writing, where students compose a variety of written texts with a clear controlling idea, coherent organization, and sufficient detail; Research, where students are expected to know how to locate a range of relevant sources and evaluate, synthesize, and present ideas and information; Listening and Speaking, where students listen and respond to the ideas of others while contributing their own ideas in conversations and in groups; and Oral and Written Conventions, where students learn how to use the oral and written conventions of the English language in speaking and writing. The standards are cumulative--students will continue to address earlier standards as needed while they attend to standards for their grade. In English II, students will engage in activities that build on their prior knowledge and skills in order to strengthen their reading, writing, and oral language skills. Students should read and write on a daily basis.
(2)	For students whose first language is not English, the students' native language serves as a foundation for English language acquisition.
(A)	English language learners (ELLs) are acquiring English, learning content in English, and learning to read simultaneously. For this reason, it is imperative that reading instruction should be comprehensive and that students receive instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word attack skills while simultaneously being taught academic vocabulary and comprehension skills and strategies. Reading instruction that enhances ELL's ability to decode unfamiliar words and to make sense of those words in context will expedite their ability to make sense of what they read and learn from reading. Additionally, developing fluency, spelling, and grammatical conventions of academic language must be done in meaningful contexts and not in isolation.
(B)	For ELLs, comprehension of texts requires additional scaffolds to support comprehensible input. ELL students should use the knowledge of their first language (e.g., cognates) to further vocabulary development. Vocabulary needs to be taught in the context of connected discourse so that language is meaningful. ELLs must learn how rhetorical devices in English differ from those in their native language. At the same time English learners are learning in English, the focus is on academic English, concepts, and the language structures specific to the content.
(C)	During initial stages of English development, ELLs are expected to meet standards in a second language that many monolingual English speakers find difficult to meet in their native language. However, English language learners' abilities to meet these standards will be influenced by their proficiency in English. While English language learners can analyze, synthesize, and evaluate, their level of English proficiency may impede their ability to demonstrate this knowledge during the initial stages of English language acquisition. It is also critical to understand that ELLs with no previous or with interrupted schooling will require explicit and strategic support as they acquire English and learn to learn in English simultaneously.
(3)	To meet Public Education Goal 1 of the Texas Education Code, §4.002, which states, "The students in the public education system will demonstrate exemplary performance in the reading and writing of the English language,"

	students will accomplish the essential knowledge, skills, and student expectations in English II as described in subsection (b) of this section.
(4)	To meet Texas Education Code, §28.002(h), which states, "... each school district shall foster the continuation of the tradition of teaching United States and Texas history and the free enterprise system in regular subject matter and in reading courses and in the adoption of textbooks," students will be provided oral and written narratives as well as other informational texts that can help them to become thoughtful, active citizens who appreciate the basic democratic values of our state and nation.
(b)	Knowledge and skills.
(1)	Reading/Vocabulary Development. Students understand new vocabulary and use it when reading and writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	determine the meaning of grade-level technical academic English words in multiple content areas (e.g., science, mathematics, social studies, the arts) derived from Latin, Greek, or other linguistic roots and affixes;
(B)	analyze textual context (within a sentence and in larger sections of text) to distinguish between the denotative and connotative meanings of words;
(C)	infer word meaning through the identification and analysis of analogies and other word relationships;
(D)	show the relationship between the origins and meaning of foreign words or phrases used frequently in written English and historical events or developments (e.g., glasnost , avant-garde , coup d'état); and
(E)	use a dictionary, a glossary, or a thesaurus (printed or electronic) to determine or confirm the meanings of words and phrases, including their connotations and denotations, and their etymology.
(5)	Multiple Genres: Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing using Multiple Texts. Students recognize genre-specific characteristics, structures, and purposes in order to analyze, respond to, and compose a variety of texts. The student is expected to:
(A)	Analyze the structure and elements of classical, traditional, contemporary, and diverse literature including theme and author's message in different time periods	Streamlined from 2(A) CCRS II.C.2
(B)	Analyze text from literary and expository genres as models to craft authentic writing	Suggestion from Cavanaugh on question #10 to create connection between reading and writing
(C)	Make complex inferences across multiple texts, within and across genres, for elements such as theme, tone, characters, topic, perspective, and style using textual evidence	Combined from 9(D) and 9(C) CCRS II.A.8
(D)	Compare and contrast how audience and purpose affect coverage of how events are presented and information is communicated in various media such as newspapers, television, documentaries, blogs, visual images and internet	Moved and combined from 12(C), 12(A), and 12(D)
(E)	Analyze how the historical period and cultural contexts influence texts.	CCRS II C 3 AND TEKS 8

(F)	synthesize information from Analyze and draw conclusions from data presented in multiple graphical sources about the ideas presented in multiple graphical sources (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).	Moved from 11B
(G)	Recognize and apply rhetorical techniques and craft, including a clear and arguable thesis, relevant supporting evidence, pertinent examples, and insightful commentary to informational, persuasive, and analytical texts	Moved and combined from 15 and 16 TEKS
(H)	Recognize and apply rhetorical techniques and craft, such as setting, characters, plot, literary devices, and structural elements to literary dramatic, poetic and, narrative texts.	Moved from 14 TEKS
(I)	Recognize and apply rhetorical techniques and craft, including a clear and arguable thesis, reasoning, appeals, opposing viewpoints, and awareness of audience to argumentative texts.	Moved and combined from 16 TEKS
(2)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Theme and Genre. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about theme and genre in different cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	compare and contrast differences in similar themes expressed in different time periods;	Streamlined in 5A
(B)	analyze archetypes (e.g., journey of a hero, tragic flaw) in mythic, traditional and classical literature; and	Move to strand 6
(C)	relate the figurative language of a literary work to its historical and cultural setting.
(3)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Poetry. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of poetry and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.
(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;
(B)	analyze differences in the characters' moral dilemmas in works of fiction across different countries or cultures;
(C)	evaluate the connection between forms of narration (e.g., unreliable, omniscient) and tone in works of fiction; and
(D)	demonstrate familiarity with works by authors from non-English-speaking literary traditions with emphasis on 20th century world literature.
(6)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Literary Nonfiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the varied structural patterns and features of literary nonfiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.

(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.
(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.	Streamlined into 5E
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and	Streamlined in 5C
(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.	Streamlined in 5C
(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and
(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and

(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics);
(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;	Streamlined in 5D
(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and	Streamlined in 5D
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.	Streamlined in 5D
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;
(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and
(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.

(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;
(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and
(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and
(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:
(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;

(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).
(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:
(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and
(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.
(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and
(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;

(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and
(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;
(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;
(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association , Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.
(24)	Listening and Speaking/Listening. Students will use comprehension skills to listen attentively to others in formal and informal settings. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;
(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.

(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.

§110.32. English Language Arts and Reading, English II (One Credit), Beginning with School Year 2009-2010.

TEKS with edits		Committee Comments
(a)	Introduction.
(1)	The English Language Arts and Reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) are organized into the following strands: Reading, where students read and understand a wide variety of literary and informational texts; Writing, where students compose a variety of written texts with a clear controlling idea, coherent organization, and sufficient detail; Research, where students are expected to know how to locate a range of relevant sources and evaluate, synthesize, and present ideas and information; Listening and Speaking, where students listen and respond to the ideas of others while contributing their own ideas in conversations and in groups; and Oral and Written Conventions, where students learn how to use the oral and written conventions of the English language in speaking and writing. The standards are cumulative--students will continue to address earlier standards as needed while they attend to standards for their grade. In English II, students will engage in activities that build on their prior knowledge and skills in order to strengthen their reading, writing, and oral language skills. Students should read and write on a daily basis.
(2)	For students whose first language is not English, the students' native language serves as a foundation for English language acquisition.
(A)	English language learners (ELLs) are acquiring English, learning content in English, and learning to read simultaneously. For this reason, it is imperative that reading instruction should be comprehensive and that students receive instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word attack skills while simultaneously being taught academic vocabulary and comprehension skills and strategies. Reading instruction that enhances ELL's ability to decode unfamiliar words and to make sense of those words in context will expedite their ability to make sense of what they read and learn from reading. Additionally, developing fluency, spelling, and grammatical conventions of academic language must be done in meaningful contexts and not in isolation.
(B)	For ELLs, comprehension of texts requires additional scaffolds to support comprehensible input. ELL students should use the knowledge of their first language (e.g., cognates) to further vocabulary development. Vocabulary needs to be taught in the context of connected discourse so that language is meaningful. ELLs must learn how rhetorical devices in English differ from those in their native language. At the same time English learners are learning in English, the focus is on academic English, concepts, and the language structures specific to the content.
(C)	During initial stages of English development, ELLs are expected to meet standards in a second language that many monolingual English speakers find difficult to meet in their native language. However, English language learners' abilities to meet these standards will be influenced by their proficiency in English. While English language learners can analyze, synthesize, and evaluate, their level of English proficiency may impede their ability to demonstrate this knowledge during the initial stages of English language acquisition. It is also critical to understand that ELLs with no previous or with interrupted schooling will require explicit and strategic support as they acquire English and learn to learn in English simultaneously.
(3)	To meet Public Education Goal 1 of the Texas Education Code, §4.002, which states, "The students in the public education system will demonstrate exemplary performance in the reading and writing of the English language,"

	students will accomplish the essential knowledge, skills, and student expectations in English II as described in subsection (b) of this section.
(4)	To meet Texas Education Code, §28.002(h), which states, "... each school district shall foster the continuation of the tradition of teaching United States and Texas history and the free enterprise system in regular subject matter and in reading courses and in the adoption of textbooks," students will be provided oral and written narratives as well as other informational texts that can help them to become thoughtful, active citizens who appreciate the basic democratic values of our state and nation.
(b)	Knowledge and skills.
(1)	Reading/Vocabulary Development. Students understand new vocabulary and use it when reading and writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	determine the meaning of grade-level technical academic English words in multiple content areas (e.g., science, mathematics, social studies, the arts) derived from Latin, Greek, or other linguistic roots and affixes;
(B)	analyze textual context (within a sentence and in larger sections of text) to distinguish between the denotative and connotative meanings of words;
(C)	infer word meaning through the identification and analysis of analogies and other word relationships;
(D)	show the relationship between the origins and meaning of foreign words or phrases used frequently in written English and historical events or developments (e.g., glasnost , avant-garde , coup d'état); and
(E)	use a dictionary, a glossary, or a thesaurus (printed or electronic) to determine or confirm the meanings of words and phrases, including their connotations and denotations, and their etymology.
(2)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Theme and Genre. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about theme and genre in different cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	compare and contrast differences in similar themes expressed in different time periods;
(B)	analyze archetypes (e.g., journey of a hero, tragic flaw) in mythic, traditional and classical literature; and
(C)	relate the figurative language of a literary work to its historical and cultural setting.
(3)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Poetry. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of poetry and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.
(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:

(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;
(B)	analyze differences in the characters' moral dilemmas in works of fiction across different countries or cultures;
(C)	evaluate the connection between forms of narration (e.g., unreliable, omniscient) and tone in works of fiction; and
(D)	demonstrate familiarity with works by authors from non-English-speaking literary traditions with emphasis on 20th century world literature.
(6)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Literary Nonfiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the varied structural patterns and features of literary nonfiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.
(6)	Author's Purpose and Craft: Reading/Writing/Speaking/Listening using Multiple Text Types: Students use critical inquiry to analyze the purpose of authors' choices and how they influence and communicate meaning within a text. Students emulate author's craft purposefully in order to develop their own products and performances. The student is expected to:
6(A)	use effective reading strategies to identify and analyze the audience, purpose, and message of a text.	CCRS II.A.1, 9
6(B)	Identify and analyze how an author's use of language contributes to the voice, mood, or tone of a text.	CCRS II.A.10 Revised from TEKS 6
6(C)	analyze the effect of literal and figurative language, including metaphor, simile, personification, hyperbole, symbolism, and imagery, to achieve specific purposes.	CCRS II.A.7
6(D)	identify and analyze the use of literary devices including point of view, irony, sarcasm, and motif to achieve specific purposes.
6(E)	analyze the use of text structures to achieve specific purposes.	9C STREAMLINED: consolidated the concepts of genre-specific "structure and elements" in TEKS 3, 4, 5, 6 and organizational patterns, such as cause/effect, compare/contrast, and

		problem/solution, nonlinear plot, and syntactical choices.?
9(B) 6(F)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., including logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts; an author uses to achieve specific purposes.
6(G)	identify and analyze the use of rhetorical devices including allusion, appeals, understatement, overstatement, parallelism, and shifts.	Concepts taken from TEKS 7, 10A, 10B
6(H)	analyze author's use of print and graphic features to achieve specific purposes.	CCRS II.A.2; such as maps, charts, graphs, and images. examples revised from TEKS 11B
6(I)	Use the elements of craft to advance the writer's purpose when composing a variety of texts.	CCRS I.A
(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.
(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and

(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.
(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and
(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and
(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).
(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;
(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;

(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and
(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.
(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;
(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and

(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and
(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:
(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;
(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).
(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:
(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and

(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.
(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and
(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;
(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and
(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;
(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;
(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association , Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.

(24)	Listening and Speaking/Listening. Students will use comprehension skills to listen attentively to others in formal and informal settings. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;
(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.
(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.

(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A) 7A	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences; determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea; Plan a piece of writing appropriate for various purposes and audiences by generating ideas through a range of strategies such as brainstorming, journaling, reading, or discussing.	Streamlining
(B) 7B	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning; Develop drafts of varying lengths choosing an effective organizational strategy, which builds on ideas to create a focused, organized, and coherent piece of writing in timed and open-ended situations.	Streamlining
(C) 7C	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed; Revise drafts independently and collaboratively to ensure clarity, development, organization, style, word choice, and sentence fluency.	Streamlining
(D) 7D	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and Edit drafts independently and collaboratively for conventions.	Streamlining
(E) 7E	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences. Publish written work for appropriate audiences.	Streamlining
7F	Write a multi-genre composition choosing elements from literary, informational, and argumentative modes.	New: Allows students to experiment with the different modes.

§110.32. English Language Arts and Reading, English II (One Credit), Beginning with School Year 2009-2010.

TEKS with edits		Committee Comments
(a)	Introduction.
(1)	The English Language Arts and Reading Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) are organized into the following strands: Reading, where students read and understand a wide variety of literary and informational texts; Writing, where students compose a variety of written texts with a clear controlling idea, coherent organization, and sufficient detail; Research, where students are expected to know how to locate a range of relevant sources and evaluate, synthesize, and present ideas and information; Listening and Speaking, where students listen and respond to the ideas of others while contributing their own ideas in conversations and in groups; and Oral and Written Conventions, where students learn how to use the oral and written conventions of the English language in speaking and writing. The standards are cumulative--students will continue to address earlier standards as needed while they attend to standards for their grade. In English II, students will engage in activities that build on their prior knowledge and skills in order to strengthen their reading, writing, and oral language skills. Students should read and write on a daily basis.
(2)	For students whose first language is not English, the students' native language serves as a foundation for English language acquisition.
(A)	English language learners (ELLs) are acquiring English, learning content in English, and learning to read simultaneously. For this reason, it is imperative that reading instruction should be comprehensive and that students receive instruction in phonemic awareness, phonics, decoding, and word attack skills while simultaneously being taught academic vocabulary and comprehension skills and strategies. Reading instruction that enhances ELL's ability to decode unfamiliar words and to make sense of those words in context will expedite their ability to make sense of what they read and learn from reading. Additionally, developing fluency, spelling, and grammatical conventions of academic language must be done in meaningful contexts and not in isolation.
(B)	For ELLs, comprehension of texts requires additional scaffolds to support comprehensible input. ELL students should use the knowledge of their first language (e.g., cognates) to further vocabulary development. Vocabulary needs to be taught in the context of connected discourse so that language is meaningful. ELLs must learn how rhetorical devices in English differ from those in their native language. At the same time English learners are learning in English, the focus is on academic English, concepts, and the language structures specific to the content.
(C)	During initial stages of English development, ELLs are expected to meet standards in a second language that many monolingual English speakers find difficult to meet in their native language. However, English language learners' abilities to meet these standards will be influenced by their proficiency in English. While English language learners can analyze, synthesize, and evaluate, their level of English proficiency may impede their ability to demonstrate this knowledge during the initial stages of English language acquisition. It is also critical to understand that ELLs with no previous or with interrupted schooling will require explicit and strategic support as they acquire English and learn to learn in English simultaneously.
(3)	To meet Public Education Goal 1 of the Texas Education Code, §4.002, which states, "The students in the public education system will demonstrate exemplary performance in the reading and writing of the English language,"

	students will accomplish the essential knowledge, skills, and student expectations in English II as described in subsection (b) of this section.
(4)	To meet Texas Education Code, §28.002(h), which states, "... each school district shall foster the continuation of the tradition of teaching United States and Texas history and the free enterprise system in regular subject matter and in reading courses and in the adoption of textbooks," students will be provided oral and written narratives as well as other informational texts that can help them to become thoughtful, active citizens who appreciate the basic democratic values of our state and nation.
(b)	Knowledge and skills.
(1)	Reading/Vocabulary Development. Students understand new vocabulary and use it when reading and writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	determine the meaning of grade-level technical academic English words in multiple content areas (e.g., science, mathematics, social studies, the arts) derived from Latin, Greek, or other linguistic roots and affixes;
(B)	analyze textual context (within a sentence and in larger sections of text) to distinguish between the denotative and connotative meanings of words;
(C)	infer word meaning through the identification and analysis of analogies and other word relationships;
(D)	show the relationship between the origins and meaning of foreign words or phrases used frequently in written English and historical events or developments (e.g., glasnost , avant-garde , coup d'état); and
(E)	use a dictionary, a glossary, or a thesaurus (printed or electronic) to determine or confirm the meanings of words and phrases, including their connotations and denotations, and their etymology.
(2)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Theme and Genre. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about theme and genre in different cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	compare and contrast differences in similar themes expressed in different time periods;
(B)	analyze archetypes (e.g., journey of a hero, tragic flaw) in mythic, traditional and classical literature; and
(C)	relate the figurative language of a literary work to its historical and cultural setting.
(3)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Poetry. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of poetry and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the structure or prosody (e.g., meter, rhyme scheme) and graphic elements (e.g., line length, punctuation, word position) in poetry.
(4)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Drama. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of drama and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze how archetypes and motifs in drama affect the plot of plays.

(5)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Fiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the structure and elements of fiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	analyze isolated scenes and their contribution to the success of the plot as a whole in a variety of works of fiction;
(B)	analyze differences in the characters' moral dilemmas in works of fiction across different countries or cultures;
(C)	evaluate the connection between forms of narration (e.g., unreliable, omniscient) and tone in works of fiction; and
(D)	demonstrate familiarity with works by authors from non-English-speaking literary traditions with emphasis on 20th century world literature.
(6)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Literary Nonfiction. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about the varied structural patterns and features of literary nonfiction and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to evaluate the role of syntax and diction and the effect of voice, tone, and imagery on a speech, literary essay, or other forms of literary nonfiction.
(7)	Reading/Comprehension of Literary Text/Sensory Language. Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to explain the function of symbolism, allegory, and allusions in literary works.
(8)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Culture and History. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about the author's purpose in cultural, historical, and contemporary contexts and provide evidence from the text to support their understanding. Students are expected to analyze the controlling idea and specific purpose of a passage and the textual elements that support and elaborate it, including both the most important details and the less important details.
(9)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Expository Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about expository text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding. Students are expected to:
(A)	summarize text and distinguish between a summary and a critique and identify non-essential information in a summary and unsubstantiated opinions in a critique;
(B)	distinguish among different kinds of evidence (e.g., logical, empirical, anecdotal) used to support conclusions and arguments in texts;
(C)	make and defend subtle inferences and complex conclusions about the ideas in text and their organizational patterns; and
(D)	synthesize and make logical connections between ideas and details in several texts selected to reflect a range of viewpoints on the same topic and support those findings with textual evidence.

(10)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Persuasive Text. Students analyze, make inferences and draw conclusions about persuasive text and provide evidence from text to support their analysis. Students are expected to:
(A)	explain shifts in perspective in arguments about the same topic and evaluate the accuracy of the evidence used to support the different viewpoints within those arguments; and
(B)	analyze contemporary political debates for such rhetorical and logical fallacies as appeals to commonly held opinions, false dilemmas, appeals to pity, and personal attacks.
(11)	Reading/Comprehension of Informational Text/Procedural Texts. Students understand how to glean and use information in procedural texts and documents. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate text for the clarity of its graphics and its visual appeal; and
(B)	synthesize information from multiple graphical sources to draw conclusions about the ideas presented (e.g., maps, charts, schematics).
(12)	Reading/Media Literacy. Students use comprehension skills to analyze how words, images, graphics, and sounds work together in various forms to impact meaning. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater depth in increasingly more complex texts. Students are expected to:
(A)	evaluate how messages presented in media reflect social and cultural views in ways different from traditional texts;
(B)	analyze how messages in media are conveyed through visual and sound techniques (e.g., editing, reaction shots, sequencing, background music);
(C)	examine how individual perception or bias in coverage of the same event influences the audience; and
(D)	evaluate changes in formality and tone within the same medium for specific audiences and purposes.
(13)	Writing/Writing Process. Students use elements of the writing process (planning, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing) to compose text. Students are expected to:
(A)	plan a first draft by selecting the correct genre for conveying the intended meaning to multiple audiences, determining appropriate topics through a range of strategies (e.g., discussion, background reading, personal interests, interviews), and developing a thesis or controlling idea;
(B)	structure ideas in a sustained and persuasive way (e.g., using outlines, note taking, graphic organizers, lists) and develop drafts in timed and open-ended situations that include transitions and rhetorical devices used to convey meaning;
(C)	revise drafts to improve style, word choice, figurative language, sentence variety, and subtlety of meaning after rethinking how well questions of purpose, audience, and genre have been addressed;
(D)	edit drafts for grammar, mechanics, and spelling; and

(E)	revise final draft in response to feedback from peers and teacher and publish written work for appropriate audiences.
(14)	Writing/Literary Texts. Students write literary texts to express their ideas and feelings about real or imagined people, events, and ideas. Students are responsible for at least two forms of literary writing. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an engaging story with a well-developed conflict and resolution, interesting and believable characters, a range of literary strategies (e.g., dialogue, suspense) and devices to enhance the plot, and sensory details that define the mood or tone;
(B)	write a poem using a variety of poetic techniques (e.g., structural elements, figurative language) and a variety of poetic forms (e.g., sonnets, ballads); and
(C)	write a script with an explicit or implicit theme and details that contribute to a definite mood or tone.
(15)	Writing/Expository and Procedural Texts. Students write expository and procedural or work-related texts to communicate ideas and information to specific audiences for specific purposes. Students are expected to:
(A)	write an analytical essay of sufficient length that includes:
(i)	effective introductory and concluding paragraphs and a variety of sentence structures;
(ii)	rhetorical devices, and transitions between paragraphs;
(iii)	a thesis or controlling idea;
(iv)	an organizing structure appropriate to purpose, audience, and context;
(v)	relevant evidence and well-chosen details; and
(vi)	distinctions about the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas that support the thesis statement;
(B)	write procedural or work-related documents (e.g., instructions, e-mails, correspondence, memos, project plans) that include:
(i)	organized and accurately conveyed information;
(ii)	reader-friendly formatting techniques; and
(iii)	anticipation of readers' questions;
(C)	write an interpretative response to an expository or a literary text (e.g., essay or review) that:
(i)	extends beyond a summary and literal analysis;
(ii)	addresses the writing skills for an analytical essay and provides evidence from the text using embedded quotations; and
(iii)	analyzes the aesthetic effects of an author's use of stylistic and rhetorical devices; and

(D)	produce a multimedia presentation (e.g., documentary, class newspaper, docudrama, infomercial, visual or textual parodies, theatrical production) with graphics, images, and sound that conveys a distinctive point of view and appeals to a specific audience.
(16)	Writing/Persuasive Texts. Students write persuasive texts to influence the attitudes or actions of a specific audience on specific issues. Students are expected to write an argumentative essay to the appropriate audience that includes:
(A)	a clear thesis or position based on logical reasons supported by precise and relevant evidence;
(B)	consideration of the whole range of information and views on the topic and accurate and honest representation of these views (i.e., in the author's own words and not out of context);
(C)	counter-arguments based on evidence to anticipate and address objections;
(D)	an organizing structure appropriate to the purpose, audience, and context;
(E)	an analysis of the relative value of specific data, facts, and ideas; and
(F)	a range of appropriate appeals (e.g., descriptions, anecdotes, case studies, analogies, illustrations).
(17)	Oral and Written Conventions/Conventions. Students understand the function of and use the conventions of academic language when speaking and writing. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to:
(A)	use and understand the function of the following parts of speech in the context of reading, writing, and speaking:
(i)	more complex active and passive tenses and verbals (gerunds, infinitives, participles);
(ii)	restrictive and nonrestrictive relative clauses; and
(iii)	reciprocal pronouns (e.g., each other, one another);
(B)	identify and use the subjunctive mood to express doubts, wishes, and possibilities; and
(C)	use a variety of correctly structured sentences (e.g., compound, complex, compound-complex).
(18)	Oral and Written Conventions/Handwriting, Capitalization, and Punctuation. Students write legibly and use appropriate capitalization and punctuation conventions in their compositions. Students are expected to:
(A)	use conventions of capitalization; and
(B)	use correct punctuation marks including:
(i)	comma placement in nonrestrictive phrases, clauses, and contrasting expressions;
(ii)	quotation marks to indicate sarcasm or irony; and
(iii)	dashes to emphasize parenthetical information.

(19)	Oral and Written Conventions/Spelling. Students spell correctly. Students are expected to spell correctly, including using various resources to determine and check correct spellings.
(20)	Research/Research Plan. Students ask open-ended research questions and develop a plan for answering them. Students are expected to:	See 8.C
(A)	brainstorm, consult with others, decide upon a topic, and formulate a major research question to address the major research topic; and	See 8.C
(B)	formulate a plan for engaging in research on a complex, multi-faceted topic.	See 8.C
(21)	Research/Gathering Sources. Students determine, locate, and explore the full range of relevant sources addressing a research question and systematically record the information they gather. Students are expected to:	See 8.C
(A)	follow the research plan to compile data from authoritative sources in a manner that identifies the major issues and debates within the field of inquiry;	See 8.C
(B)	organize information gathered from multiple sources to create a variety of graphics and forms (e.g., notes, learning logs); and	See 8.C
(C)	paraphrase, summarize, quote, and accurately cite all researched information according to a standard format (e.g., author, title, page number).	See 8.C
(22)	Research/Synthesizing Information. Students clarify research questions and evaluate and synthesize collected information. Students are expected to:	See 8.C
(A)	modify the major research question as necessary to refocus the research plan;	See 8.C
(B)	evaluate the relevance of information to the topic and determine the reliability, validity, and accuracy of sources (including Internet sources) by examining their authority and objectivity; and	See 8.C
(C)	critique the research process at each step to implement changes as the need occurs and is identified.	See 8.C
(8)	Inquiry and Research: Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing using Multiple Texts. Students engage in both short-term and sustained recursive inquiry processes for self-selected and assigned purposes. The student is expected to:
A	Use the research process in informal inquiries to develop topics and questions, locate relevant sources, critically evaluate sources, and demonstrate understanding.	CCRS V.A.1 CCRS V.B.1 CCRS V.B.2
(23)	Research/Organizing and Presenting Ideas. Students organize and present their ideas and information according to the purpose of the research and their audience. Students are expected to synthesize the research into a written or an oral presentation that:
(A)	marshals evidence in support of a clear thesis statement and related claims;	See Strand 5.G

(B)	provides an analysis for the audience that reflects a logical progression of ideas and a clearly stated point of view;	See Strand 5.G
(C)	uses graphics and illustrations to help explain concepts where appropriate;
(D)	uses a variety of evaluative tools (e.g., self-made rubrics, peer reviews, teacher and expert evaluations) to examine the quality of the research; and
(E)	uses a style manual (e.g., Modern Language Association, Chicago Manual of Style) to document sources and format written materials.
B	Use the research process in formal inquiries to develop topics and questions, devise a plan, locate and synthesize information from a variety of sources, and critically evaluate sources.	Split from TEKS (20), (21), (22) CCRS V.A.1 CCRS V.B.1,2,3
C	Use the research process in formal inquiries to determine the mode of delivery and to use information in order to design and present an effective product, displaying academic citations.	Split from TEKS (20), (21), (22) CCRS V.A.1 CCRS V.B.1,2,3 CCRS V.C
D	Use source materials ethically.	(21) (C) CCRS V.C.2
E	Use appropriate technology to gather, organize, manage, analyze, and present information.	CCRS V.C.1
(A)	listen responsively to a speaker by taking notes that summarize, synthesize, or highlight the speaker's ideas for critical reflection and by asking questions related to the content for clarification and elaboration;
(B)	follow and give complex oral instructions to perform specific tasks, answer questions, solve problems, and complete processes; and
(C)	evaluate how the style and structure of a speech support or undermine its purpose or meaning.
(25)	Listening and Speaking/Speaking. Students speak clearly and to the point, using the conventions of language. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to advance a coherent argument that incorporates a clear thesis and a logical progression of valid evidence from reliable sources and that employs eye contact, speaking rate (e.g., pauses for effect), volume, enunciation, purposeful gestures, and conventions of language to communicate ideas effectively.
(26)	Listening and Speaking/Teamwork. Students work productively with others in teams. Students will continue to apply earlier standards with greater complexity. Students are expected to participate productively in teams, building on the ideas of others, contributing relevant information, developing a plan for consensus-building, and setting ground rules for decision-making.
